

95-0228

The electronic stethoscope relates to the medicinal technique.

The electronic stethoscope contains a microphone, an amplifier, an isolating switch for the information simultaneous reception, a power source, a dynamic head, a pipe acoustic line, the novelty consists in the introduction of a charger connected to the power source and a bridge circuit connected to the exit of the amplifier.

The technical result consists in increasing the output signal power and the determination of the voltage constant quantity to the power source input.

Claims: 1

Fig.: 1