

a 2001 0037

The invention refers to medicine, in particular to stomatology and perfumery industry.

The proposed process includes preparation of the raw material, carrying out of the fourfold extraction into an apparatus of percolator type, with 80...85% ethyl alcohol, in the ratio of 1:5, the first extraction constituting not less than 24 hours and the subsequent ones not less than 10 hours each.

It is also claimed utilization of the extract as medicament for treatment and prophylaxis of oral mucosa inflammatory pathologies and as material for preparation of hygienic and cosmetic products with anti-inflammatory and cicatrizant action.

Claims: 3