

The invention relates to the installations utilizing the water current energy.

The installation for water current energy utilization contains a floating body (1) of cylindrical shape with blades (2), fixed onto its external surface, which is joined by means of a rope (5) with the support (4), placed on the bank of the river or in the water. The body (1) is joined by means of a cardan joint (6) with a generator (7).

Claims: 1

Fig.: 2