

The invention refers to medicine, namely to the vascular surgery.

Summary of the invention consists in that after sanitation of the trophic ulcer from pathogenic microflora and necrotic tissues, inhibition of the topical and systemic inflammation, it is carried out stimulation of epithelization, growth and maturation of the connective tissue of the trophic ulcer by application onto its surface of a biologically active additive chitosan in the first 3...4 days daily, next days in 1...2 days, with that the formed crust is daily treated with a solution of antiseptic.

Claims: 1