

a 2004 0009

The invention relates to a process for obtaining pharmacologically active compounds used in medical practice for treatment of cardiovascular diseases.

The process for obtaining symmetrical N,N'-malonyl-bis-diamides includes condensation of the malonic ester with the esters of the aromatic amino acids, in the molar ratio of 1:2, in inert solvent at the temperature of 170...215°C.

Claims: 1