

a 2005 0061

The invention refers to medicine, in particular to gynecology and may be used for prophylaxis of dishormonal hyperplasiae to patients with associated gynecological and non-gynecological diseases.

Summary of the invention consists in that there are administered preparations containing phytoestrogens, namely linseed oil, which is administered for one capsule containing 66 mg, 2...3 times a day, and the treatment cure constitutes 4 months.

Claims: 1