

a 2006 0210

The invention refers to the veterinary medicine, namely to a method of helminthosis prophylaxis and treatment to cervidae.

The method of helminthosis prophylaxis and treatment to cervidae includes application of the antihelminthic preparation atazole in the form of saltlick briquette, including additionally zinc sulphate, cobalt chloride, potassium iodide, sodium chloride, chopped hay and bentonite in the following component ratio, mass %:

atazole	0,64...1,00
zinc sulphate	0,7...0,9
cobalt chloride	0,4...0,6
potassium iodide	0,0007...0,0009
sodium chloride	20,0...24,0
chopped hay	2,5...3,0
bentonite	the rest.

The briquette is applied in the period of maximum accumulation of helminth preimaginal and imaginal forms to animals.

Claims: 1