

a 2007 0018

The invention refers to the field of medicine and can be used for dosing generation of solid aerosol.
The device for haloaerosol generation consists of a body (1), wherein it is installed a detachable container for salt (2) and an electromagnet (3), placed under the container (2) and connected to a control unit (8). Into the detachable container (2) it is installed a detachable disk of ferromagnetic material (6) and into the sidewalls of the container there are made long slots (7) for haloaerosol removal.

Claims: 1

Fig.: 1

