

a 2015 0091

The invention relates to a specific group of novel antiviral compounds having a nucleus consisting of condensed imidazolyl-dihydroxyisochromeno-naphthoimidazoles.

As typical representatives selected from this group can serve the following compounds:

The claimed compounds may be useful for the treatment of hepatitis C virus infections.

Claims: 1