

The invention refers to agriculture, in particular to processes for mushroom cultivation in climate chambers.

The process, according to the invention, includes utilization of a chamber with the walls made of porous material. The optimal temperature and moisture conditions inside the chamber are maintained naturally constant by installing the chamber into an underground mine with the formation of an air gap between the chamber walls and the mine walls.

Claims: 1

Fig.: 3